

Dear True Gain,

We wanted to let you know about our experiences using the new True Gain Mighty Mini 5000 and the Mighty Mini 900 antennas.

Here at Michwave, we have extensively used slip-on antenna accessories in the past. Having now installed the True Gain Mighty Mini antennas in many installations, some very challenging, I can confidently say these True Gain antennas have superior performance to anything currently on the market that we are aware of.

The dramatic decrease in jitter along with the increased signal performance makes these True Gain antennas the obvious choice for us. We have found that True Gain antennas are to their word and actually perform to the specs, unlike most others. These have replaced many other competitors' products.

We also like the fact that with the Mighty Mini we only need one part for any 900 application, which required carrying multiple antennas with our prior slip-on antenna solution. Vertical or horizontal from the same 900 MHz antenna is a nice benefit, and the snap on ease and security to the Motorola SM is a definite improvement over what we are used to installing.

Please keep us informed of other new True Gain products, as we are very happy with the ones we have tried so far....

Regards,
